

Questions to think about:

- Who needs access to names and contact information of alumni for their specific projects, goals, or use cases?
- What is the capacity of your university and those who will be using the data?
 - Do staff need the support of more people to handle data requests? Can one person handle the usual amount of data requests?
- Do you have upcoming projects or reports that may need more people involved?
- What other processes does your campus have in place when it comes to data and data access?
